

Students have designs on recycling

STUDENTS learned about the recession in a novel way – by holding an urban recycling fayre.

The main attraction of the event, held at the Liverpool Lighthouse on Oakfield Road in Anfield, was a fashion show put on by youngsters from the Harmonize alternative education project.

Using items such as recycled clothes, CD's and litter, the students – aged 14-16 – created stylish statement pieces from unwanted items.

Event organiser Alfie Levene said: "It was great to see how excited the kids were about such a fun and educational event.

"The kids' outfits' were amazing and really got people talking."
